

M.A.N AND THE MANIACS

M.A.N (Marina Anne Nolles), a French singer-songwriter with American origins, meets her bandmembers in 2018 and the story of M.A.N AND THE MANIACS joyfully begins.

She is the red velvet spell-caster, and her voice was a call of the siren...First to answer was Romain Thorel (Keyboard/French Horn) the groovy wonder child. Then came Arnaud Beyney (Guitar/Bass) the devil's music charmer, and Elodie Longuemart (Drums/Vocals) a sunbeam she-punk.

So began a boisterous friendship between four talented musicians striving to make something real, with real instruments, real voices, raw and potent texts. Their message, hard to hear yet easy to listen to: a storm is coming.

Theirs is a shamelessly seventies inspiration, a protest pop bathed in voodooey undertones that confronts the ironies of human life as it wades through a swamp of toxic waste. Hopeless, hopeful, unapologetic. On stage the group catches fire, a whirlwind of original sound, voice and beat that coax and scold. Sweet on the outside, sour on the inside.

Two songs were released in 2020 - "Chemically Yours" and "The lake" - featured in playlists such as Rolling Stone Magazine France, and a first album is to be proudly unveiled in May 2021.
